The cost of dressing is very largely an affair are still hot. Stand in a cold place two hours of the dressmaker. Materials, even of the best, cost a comparatively small sum, and almost any woman of ordinary means could afford to dress well-distinctively well, rather than merely fairly well-were it not for the appalling prices of the modiste. A dress pattern of the best of cashmere or Henrietta cloth, including the lining and small necessities, can be purchased within $10, but when collected at a small fair held at 58 the making costs from $20 to $30 more, it is

But there is a way out of this, and one of whi h women in cities can well avail themselves. This is to have one gown cut and fitted by a first-class modiste and an exact pattern of it cut. Now, with a perfectly fit, ting pattern, with seams and darts marked at the proper place, it is not more than two hours' work for any woman, however ignorant on the subject of dress-making she may be, to cut and baste a new gown. Then let her take it to one of the sewing-machine stores and have all the seams sewed. The "Unishing off" can easily be hired done. Almost any saleswoman in a sewing-machine tomer, either by doing it herself in her hours hobby of Hoye's Madison Square Theatre, at home or giving it to some one she knows Will and thus the gown can be made at comparatively ittle expense. After Long Absence.

And where we said farewell with tears. liere, where you swore, "Though you forge My love shall deeper grow with years!" Here, where the pictures on the wall,

The smallest objects you recall-I am awaiting you once more. The books that we together read From off their shelves they becken me; All here seems living-what is dead?

The very rugs upon the floor,

What is the ghost I fear to see? 'nchanged am I; did you despise Ny love as small?-it fills my heart! You come, a stranger from your eyes Looks out, and meeting first we part !

Nothing makes a better knitting-bag than one of the straw sleeve-protectors worn by butchers. They may first be embroidered either with a bit of doggerel like the sketch, or with a spray of flowers or any other simple design, and then slipped over a long, loose bag of colored silk and sewn firmly in place.

much slighter moment than it is popularly supposed to be. The last thing a girl who is in earnest about her education cares for is her gowns, if only they are comfortable and suitable. One girl known to the writer went through an entire college course of four years with four new gowns, and she was well dressed all the time. The expenses of fitting up one's quarters are not so much for a woman as for a man, supposing it to be done at all in the latter's case. The "knowing how," which is charactistic of a woman's fingers, is better than a great many dollars in a man's purse. The daintiest study parlors the writer has ever seen were two jurnished with the most obvious articles of need by the college, and decorated at an additional expense of $25 for the wo by the girls who had taken them for the year. There is no point of expense in which the woman student has not the advantage of the man student. No matter how little he economizes in dead earnest he goes into a to au plait in the back. If one wishes one can stove in her own room and does her own cook-

Early-planted roses for Winter flowering ill now be benefited by a thin mulching of manure, but it is safer to err on the side of thinness than to apply too heavy a coating, as the latter generally results in injury to the bone dust is at all times beneficial to the soil for roses, providing the bone be of good lity, and the most satisfactory grade of this fertilizer is secured from a button factory, because the bone so used is in its natural state, and is much superior as a plant food to that which has been boiled or dissolved with acids. Good bone dust feels some a hat greasy when rubbed between the fingers, while that prepared from bones that have been boiled in order to extract the oil is quite dry and feels gritty to the touch. As the young roses make their growth, disoudding must be attended to frequently, for the strength of the plant is all needed to nake wood at this season so as to secure a strong growth ready for Winter flowering; and even in Winter it is necessary to disbud regularly if flowers of extra size are desired This is practised by the large commercial growers who make a specialty of roses and they disbud as regularly as they do in the case of chrysanthemums in order to produce the eight and ten inch flowers frequently at the Autumn shows. Among the varieties specially benefited by this budding are the Bride, Catherine Mermet and Wooton, all of which send out their lateral buds before the reduced. La France is also improved by the same method, for this variety, when growing strongly, often forms lateral buds.

Marrow Toast.

Marrow toast is a delicious and inexpensive relish for tea or luncheon. Buy a large shin bone and have the butcher split it, then take out the marrow in one piece. Cut the marrow into slices nearly an inch thick and set aside. Mix in a hot dish a teaspoonful of chopped parsley, the same quantity of lemon tuice, half a teaspoonful of sait, a grain of cayenne and several drops of onion juice. Also have in the oven several squares of toast, crisp and browned evenly. Cook the marrow rapidly ninety seconds, bolling it in quart of salted water. Drain the marrow thoroughly and mix it with the seasoning in the hot dish. Spread on the toast and serve Toast, marrow and seasoning must be hot when sent to the table and eaten before the
